This Seminar, the second in our series, is planned as an advanced course in renal nutrition targeting both local and international participation of dietitians, nephrologists, general practitioners, nurses, pharmacists and medical assistants. Our Faculty, comprising both international and local experts will deliver topics related to nutritional issues in dialysis patients and enhancing nutrition care of renal patients. The course is structured by our Faculty Leader, Prof Joel Kopple who is a world renowned nephrology expert in the field of renal nutrition. He is currently professor emeritus at David Geffen UCLA School of Medicine and UCLA School of Public Health. The Seminar aims to provide delegates an update on advanced nutrition knowledge applied to kidney patient care.
